

ADMIRAL WALKER HONORED IN DEATH

High Officials and Distinguished Officers Attend Funeral.

Imposing Military Display at Church and Arlington.

Every branch of the military and naval service of the United States yesterday joined in paying the last tributes of respect and friendship to Rear Admiral John C. Walker, U. S. N., retired, whose death occurred last Sunday in Camp Meade, Me. In the auditorium of All Souls' Church there were gathered diplomats, members of the President's cabinet, prominent men of social life in Washington, and officers of the highest rank in the army and navy.

Outside of the church there was one of the most imposing military pageants ever seen in Washington, and when, at the conclusion of the services, the funeral cortege wound its way through the principal streets of Washington and over the Aqueduct bridge into picturesque Virginia, every one who saw stood in silent reverence to the distinguished officer who was being carried to his burial place.

Admiral Walker's ashes reached Washington yesterday and were taken to 1202 Eighteenth street northwest. The body was cremated in Boston. There were no services at the house, but shortly before 2 o'clock the casket bearing the ashes reached the church. The Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, the rector, officiated, assisted by Chaplain Bayard, of the navy.

Delegations at Church.

In the church were delegations from the Sons of the American Revolution, the Loyal Legion, the Bureau of Navigation, of which Admiral Walker served some years as chief; the Isthmian Canal Commission, of which he was the first chairman, and the Metropolitan Club.

The honorary pallbearers were Rear Admiral Frederick Rodgers, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Albert S. Barker, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Newton E. Mason, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Eugene H. C. Leuze, U. S. N.; Paymaster Gen. Henry L. B. Harris, U. S. N., retired; Charles C. Glover, Franklin K. Lane, Nathaniel Wilson, General Copping, and Commodore Wallace. A corps of ushers under Lieut. Com. D. F. Sellers, U. S. N., included Lieut. T. C. Hart, U. S. N.; Lieut. E. McCauley, U. S. N.; Lieut. C. R. Miller, U. S. N., and Ensign A. C. Pickens, U. S. N.

Secretary Metcalf, Admiral Dewey, and former Secretary of the Navy Hillary A. Herbert were the most conspicuous representatives of the Navy Department. Others at the funeral were representatives of the various embassies, the legation of Panama, Commander Mulligan, Commander Sharp, Commander Winslow, Commander Wood, Paymaster General Kenney, Commander Chambers, Gen. John M. Wilson, Colonel Russell, U. S. A., and General Elliott, U. S. M. C.

Imposing Military Scene.

The military formation outside the church was imposing. The escort was drawn up on the west side of the church, facing the church and ranged from I street to Massachusetts avenue. When the bugler of the Marine Corps sounded "Assembly," announcing that the church services had been concluded, the call was taken up by the naval orderly and echoed by that of the artillery. The troops were drawn up in attention and as the body of the Admiral was borne out of the church by eight bluejackets the Marine Band sounded the soft strains of "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Every head was bowed as the casket, draped in a flag and bearing the chaplain's sword and epauletts of the dead officer, was placed on the waiting caisson. The escort fell into line and the march to Arlington was begun.

Rear Admiral Uriel Sebree commanded the funeral escort, and rode at the head of the column. With him was his son, Captain Jackson. The Marine Band followed and then came four companies of marines, two from Washington under command of Captain Chamberlain and Captain Brown, one from Annapolis, and another from Norfolk under command of Captain Brewster. Major Long was in command of the detachment. Following the marines were two battalions of sailors from Norfolk—one from the Louisiana under command of Captain Fisher, and the other from the Franklin in command of Captain Oliver. Battery E, of the Third battalion, United States Artillery, from Fort Myer, was under command of Captain Clegg. Following the detachment were the caissons, followed the escort, and carriages containing members of Admiral Walker's family and a number of his friends were directly behind.

Admiral's Salute Fired.

The funeral cortege went out Pennsylvania avenue and across the bridge to Arlington. No more beautiful site could have been selected than the spot where Admiral Walker is buried. It lies just on the slope of the hill to the southeast and in the shadow of the Crook monument and other imposing memorials to the country's dead. As the funeral procession turned in to the cemetery gate an admiral's salute of thirteen minute guns was fired by troops from Fort Myer. The ceremony was repeated during the services at the grave.

The detachment of marines led the way, and was then drawn up at attention facing the grave. On the top of the hill looking down toward the Walker grave was a company of marines, and when the short service had been concluded the marines fired the last volley. As the caasket was lowered into the laurel-lined grave a bugler from the Marine Corps sounded "Taps." The clear notes of the "soldier's goodnight" rang out over the hills, and told to those who were not within the cemetery gates the story of another brave fight ended, another soldier who had gone to his rest.

The floral offerings were unusually elaborate. One came from the Metropolitan Club, another from the Loyal Legion, the Sons of the American Revolution, and from the two offices with which Admiral Walker had been associated, the Bureau of Navigation and the Isthmian Canal Commission.

At a meeting on Friday night of the District of Columbia Commandery of the Order of Foreign Wars of the United States, resolutions on the death of Admiral Walker were adopted.

RAIN AND COOLER WEATHER PROMISED BY WEATHERMAN; OLD SOL GIVEN HARD LICKS

Hitched Up His Trousers and Drove Mercury to 96 Degrees.

There seems to be just a little hope for Washington in regard to a let-up in what has been the severest hot wave residents of this city have experienced at this time of the year for many seasons. The weather forecaster who holds forth at Uncle Sam's weather factory, predicts showers and a decided fall in the mercury. But in the face of old man Sol's pernicious habit of appearing when his rival Phobus has been bailed, and vice versa, the warning for Washingtonians to have their umbrellas in a handy place should mean that parasols will be needed instead.

Yesterday was the hottest day the city has had for more than a month. About 7 o'clock the departing rains of the preceding days had left a trail of mist which gave the impression that the day would be enduring. There was nothing doing through along that line. As it increased that he should be out of the few hours given him at this period of the year Old Sol spat upon his hands, gave his trousers a hitch, and got a start at 79 at 8 o'clock and increased his efforts steadily until at 1 o'clock he had lifted the mercury to 96 in the shade. No small accomplishment for the 21st of September. It was thought that this would be his supreme effort, but those who hoped for a breakdown in the old gentleman's strength were sadly left. The slight wavering between 1 and 2 o'clock was merely caused by another hitch, and off the old man raced again with a stride that carried him to 96, at which dizzy height he rested from 3 o'clock until shortly after 5 o'clock, when satisfied with his attempts for one day, he reluctantly gave way to his press of business elsewhere.

As soon as he was gone the mercury took advantage of the fact and speedily dropped to 85, where it rested from 8 o'clock until near midnight.

COMMERCE CHAMBER INVITED TO CHICAGO

National Civic Federation Asks That Delegation Be Sent.

Secretary William F. Gude, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, has received an invitation from the National Civic Federation in which the chamber is requested to send a delegation to the conference on combinations and trusts to be held in Chicago October 22 to 25. The invitation will be presented to the executive committee at its next meeting this week when it will be decided whether the chamber is to participate. Already the District Commissioners have appointed a delegation to represent the District, in which is included the president and two vice presidents of the Chamber of Commerce and the president of the Board of Trade, and the editors of the four Washington papers. The executive committee of the Federation is made up of fifty of the most prominent men in the country, and is divided into three groups representing the public, employers, and wage-earners. The national conference on combinations and trusts promises to be one of the most important gatherings of all classes of public leaders ever held.

BEGINS CAMPAIGN ON TUBERCULOSIS

Associated Charities Decide on Fight Against the Disease.

Plan Bath to Cure and Prevent "the Plague."

At a special meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Charities at the residence of Dr. D. Percy Hickling, 1304 Rhode island avenue northwest, last night important plans were formulated for the fall campaign of that association against tuberculosis among the poor of the District, both of preventive and curative nature.

The meeting was attended by the Rev. John Van Schalk, Gen. George M. Sternberg, William H. Baldwin, and Charles F. Welles, secretary of the association and chairman of the committee. Miss Isabel L. Strong, recently appointed superintendent of the instructive visiting nurses' society, with a practical experience in tuberculosis work in Boston, was made a member of the executive subcommittee and will serve with the general committee on prevention of consumption.

Miss Bray Secretary.

Miss Eugenia M. Bray, one of the successful agents of the association, was elected secretary. This position was formerly filled by Wallace Hatch. Miss Bray will visit Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and other large centers of tenement life to study actual conditions and later will take up dispensary work, camp life, tuberculosis exhibits, health departments, and the nursing of consumptive patients.

A report made by General W. H. Fordwood showed that the receipts and expenditures for the local work from November 1, 1906, to September 30, 1907, was $2,500. William F. Gude, chairman of the finance committee, showed that $3,561.61 had been raised by subscriptions including a balance on hand October 1, 1906, of $1,244.55.

Cases Treated.

Gen. George M. Sternberg for the committee on care and treatment of indigent consumptives, reported that 150 cases had been treated.

Dr. Van Schalk reviewed the work of the association in this field of charity and said that while a charity to the ignorant dependent poor who were unable to help themselves the work was at the same time a safeguard and protection to the public health and safety. The other members of the committee spoke and said that the work of the Association for the Prevention and Cure of Consumption under modern treatment and conditions would be greatly extended the coming fall and winter season.

FOLK MAKES PLEA FOR HONESTY RULE

JAMESTOWN, Va., Sept. 21.—The Folk boom for the Democratic Presidential nomination was given added impetus today during the celebration of Missouri Day, when Gov. Joseph Folk, creator of the day, was cheered as he announced the principles of honesty in office.

He declared that the exposure in the insurance world and the financial and railroad fields have resulted beneficially inasmuch as they have taught men in high places that the public conscience must be respected and men holding political or other positions must safeguard the public as well as their individual interests.

LABOR PROTESTS AGAINST RULING

Bonaparte's Decision Said to Nullify Contract Labor Law.

A protest against the ruling recently laid down by Attorney General Bonaparte in regard to the operation of the anti-alien contract labor provision of the immigration law was made yesterday to Secretary Straus, of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor. Those who visited the department and discussed the situation with the Secretary were President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, and President Richard Kitchin, of the Lithographic Artists, Engravers, and Designers' League of America.

The particular action which was responsible for the conference held yesterday was the attitude taken by the Attorney General in ordering the admission of two lithographic suppliers who were imported by the American Lithographic Company to take the place of strikers after a board of special inquiry had decided that they should be deported as workmen imported under contract. It was when the company had appealed the case to Secretary Straus, and he in turn had referred it to the Attorney General that the latter ordered the men to be admitted.

The labor leaders claim that the decision practically nullifies the intent of the law. No decision has been reached since the discussion yesterday morning.

Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS ON ANNUAL OUTING

Boys, With Secretary Chesley, Spend Day in Rock Creek Park.

Pierce's Mill, in the picturesque Rock Creek Park, was the scene of an unusually enthusiastic gathering of boys yesterday, the occasion being the annual September outing of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The party of boys, in charge of Secretary Albert M. Chesley, reached the park early in the forenoon, and quickly got down to the real enjoyment of the opportunities afforded them in such an ideal place.

The party was bubbling over with youthful spirit, and each seemed to vie with the other in seeing just how much fun could be gotten out of the day. The morning was spent in all kinds of athletic sports, while the afternoon was given over to red-hot rivalry in baseball contests. These same boys will be guests tomorrow afternoon of the Washington baseball management at the game between Washington and Chicago. The boys will meet Secretary Chesley at the ball park thirty minutes before the game starts.

Falls Three Stories; Skull Fractured.

While working on the house at 1013 Lamont street northwest, yesterday afternoon, William Zell, a painter, thirty-two years of age, living at 82 Tenth street northwest, fell from a third-story window to a balcony on the first floor. He was taken to Garfield Hospital, where it was said he has a fractured skull. Hope is entertained for his recovery.

GEORGETOWN NEWS

J. McKenney Berry, of 1214 Thirty-first street northwest, reported to the police of the Seventh precinct today that some time within the past two months a vacant house, at 1507 Thirty-first street, had been entered and that three stoves, a kitchen range and fixtures were stolen.

The two-story brick dwelling adjoining the Seventh precinct station, the property of Captain Schneider, which has been under course of construction for several weeks, is nearing completion, and it is expected he will move into his new home about the 1st of October.

The funeral of the Rev. Daniel Wheeler, of Tenleytown, D. C., who died at his home last Thursday, will be held Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The body will lie in state at the Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Twenty-ninth street and Dumbarton avenue northwest, Monday from 10 to 1:30 o'clock.

John Wells, of Tenleytown, D. C., who was knocked from the running-board of a Chevy Chase car several weeks ago by a rock thrown by an unknown negro, is still a patient at the Garfield Hospital. His case has been a mystery to the physicians. At times he seems to have entirely recovered, but again lapses into a state of unconsciousness.

Mrs. Browne, of 1413 Thirty-sixth street northwest, mother of George Browne, the outfielder of the New York Giants, has returned from a visit to her son in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sommers, of M street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Cora Sommers, to Joseph Bendheim, of Alexandria, Va.

Allow Us to Place a Piano in Your Home on Trial

This Piano Department is immensely successful because it has revolutionized all methods of piano selling; and now, instead of going to an exclusive piano store and paying a fancy price, the wise buyer comes here. Why? Because there's a clear saving of $100 to begin with, for the reason that pianos are not expected to produce the profits for this entire business as in the piano store. Secondly—we place in your home, entirely at our risk and expense, a superbly high-grade instrument in order that you may be satisfied that it is just what you want; and if you decide to buy it no cash payment whatever will be required and $1 weekly pays for it. We'd be glad to have a representative talk with you about it if you say the word.
